SUBJECT: 27 January 1978 Discussion with
Congressman Dingell (D-Mich.)

25X1 1. Background. On 27 January 1978 Admiral Turner, DCI, accompanied by [REDACTED] OLC, and Mr. Shackley, ADDO, met with Congressman Dingell in the latter's office in the Rayburn Building. Messrs Potter, Stockton and Ward of Congressman Dingell's staff were also present at the meeting. Congressman Dingell initiated the substantive discussion by saying he wanted to discuss the thrust of his 20 January 1978 letter to the DCI on the topic of [REDACTED]. The following paragraphs outline the thrust of the 27 January 1978 meeting.

2. Issues of Concern to Congressman Dingell. The Congressman stated that his interests in the hearings that he was conducting did not focus on CIA. On the contrary, Congressman Dingell made the point that his primary concerns were with the loss of nuclear materials at U.S. processing plants, the security of U.S. nuclear facilities and the proven inability of the U.S. to improve procedures which were designed to protect nuclear processing facilities. As a result of these interests Congressman Dingell wanted data that CIA might possess which would impact on these issues. The Congressman stressed that his interest was in the intelligence that CIA might have on these topics and that he did not want to compromise any sources or methods.
